Royal command performance at Rose Centre

Company Theatre is delighted to have a very distinguished audience member each night for its production of Palladium. Queen Victoria will be there to view a traditional Music Hall in the first half of the show. Just which royal will view the second half, a Royal Variety Show, will remain a mystery until opening night.

Palladium promises a real entertainment experience. From the moment you enter the Rose Centre, you will step back in time to a more leisurely pace and dignified grace. Rub shoulders with royalty, be treated to dance, song and sketches, be transported through a century of music. Will Queen Victoria be amused?

Come and see for yourself. The gala opening night at the Rose Centre, Belmont is August 16 and the season runs from August 20 to 30 with a Sunday matinee on August 24. Phone 445-6939 for bookings.

Palladium is directed by Ruth Seagrove, who has been a member of Company Theatre for the past 14 years. She has starred in and directed many shows and is well known for her work with children's shows at Junior Company and Belmont Primary School.

Company Theatre has been the resident theatre group at Belmont's Rose Centre since it opened five years ago. Before that, Company was based at St Michael's Hall in Bayswater and was well known for its traditional Music Halls.

Concert for everyone

Company Theatre relives the old time music hall entertainment tradition
 Song, dance and merriment will soon flow from the Rose Centre in Belmont.
 Company Theatre opens its season of Palladium this Saturday.
 The show begins in old time music hall style and progresses to a royal variety style concert. Tickets cost $15 or $10 for concessions. Phone 445-6939 for bookings or door sales on the nights.
 The show runs 16-30 August.
